Introducing IQVIA One Home for Sites

As the world's largest provider of clinical development services and a leading developer of software used in clinical trials, IQVIA understands that sites are at their breaking point. The industry cannot keep asking them to use more and more technology with no end in sight.

That's why IQVIA is going beyond its own products and services and inviting all sponsors, CROs, and technology vendors to join in creating One Home for Sites. With your participation, sites will finally have a single place to go to find everything they need.

One Home for Sites is a new platform from IQVIA Technologies, endorsed by IQVIA Research & Development Solutions (RDS). As an aggregator of clinical trial applications, it does not compete with individual products and platforms.

Built for sites to benefit all

When sponsors of trials adopt IQVIA One Home for Sites, they reduce the burden on their clinical research sites and on their own organizations. Most importantly, they are contributing to the overarching mission of the industry: To increase clinical trial capacity so that new treatments get to patients in need more quickly.

SPONSORS

- Deliver on a better investigator experience
- Get your studies prioritized and started faster by sites
- Keep your current clinical tech stack — no need to commit to a single vendor or develop inhouse

SITES

- Spend less time logging into systems and more time with patients
- Simplify system management and onboarding new staff and trials
- Activate more quickly

TECH PARTNERS

- Become a provider that's preferred by more sponsors and sites
- Make integrations of disparate clinical applications easier for your developers and customers (sponsors, sites)
- Gain exposure in the clinical marketplace and grow your userbase faster
